

Safety in Public

Do you know the best methods for keeping your family safe while in public?

Law enforcement agencies are in the business of keeping the general public safe, but as the amount of crime continues to increase all over the United States it becomes more difficult for the police to protect every citizen. This makes it important for everyone to have at least a basic knowledge about public safety.

Criminals are always looking for new targets, and they prefer people who seem to be weak, timid and unable to defend themselves. You must not fit the profile of a victim and do whatever you can to keep out of harms way. It will not always be possible to avoid confrontation, so you should also know what to do if you are threatened with violence.

In this section you will learn how to protect yourself, your children and your automobiles while out in public. Read through each scenario for some good tips that will help keep you and the people that you love safe when you are away from home.